CFI.co, a renowned print and online journal headquartered in London, reports on business, economics and finance. Providing news and analysis on international markets, it identifies regions, industry sectors and companies that are likely to succeed in today's challenging business environment. Among them this year was Raiffeisen Centrobank AG – 2017's winner in the category "Best Structured Products Bank CEE". The award acknowledges RCB's dedication to the CEE region as well as its continuing effort to spread knowledge about structured products across the region. Moreover it confirms its leading role in product quality, service, transparency and education of structured products.

"The recent CFI award as Best Structured Product Bank CEE is a special honour for RCB as it rewards our ongoing commitment and excellence in the field of structured products in our core region."

Heike Arbter, Head of Structured Products at Raiffeisen Centrobank AG

CFI.co annually awards individuals and companies that truly add value. The online nomination process, in which both subscribers and contributors are invited to cast their votes, is followed by a judging panel. Taking into account publically available information as well as material provided by the nominees, the judging panel experts award the most outstanding companies in each category.

The RCB team wants to thank all those who contributed to this success and helped establishing the bank's key role in the CEE structured products market.
